

TALKS TO GRADUATES

State University Baccalaureate Address By Mrs. Maynard.

"THE WIDER SELF-HOOD"

AIM SHOULD BE TO ENLARGE THE SELF.

College Education Is Essential to Our Betterment—Graduates Have Opportunity for Widening Out Their Lives—Collegiate Institute Sermon By Dr. Thompson.

Rev. Milla Tupper Maynard delivered the baccalaureate address to the graduates of the Utah university at the assembly hall last night. The body of the house was comfortably filled with students and friends, the class of '99 occupying the first five benches. Professor Evan Stephens rendered some very fine selections on the pipe organ before Mrs. Maynard began her address.

The lady's subject was "The Wider Self-Hood," and from the first she held the closest attention of the audience. She began by quoting Scripture, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," which was to a certain extent the text of her remarks. The speaker contended that self is all that is in the world, in this world—and we are the house we live in and can live in no other. Our lives are our own experience, she said, and must be within ourselves. A wider self-hood does everything for us, a selfish self does little. Long ago we discovered the self of today is the self of tomorrow—or, rather, that there was a tomorrow for ourselves. So there came a broadening of the self, to see that none went hungry or cold, while the selfish self went on broadening, individually only.

Referring to the agricultural age and its importance, followed by the educational and moral realm, the speaker continued: "Education means an enlargement of the house in which we live. It gives new things to care about, new loves to love. Science must broaden the individual soul, and we must realize a fact, and every study is less unless you find it helps in some way this self."

Need of College Education. "I contend that a college education is essential to our betterment," said the speaker, commencing of the solemnly expressed philosophy. The college graduate may have fewer dollars and cents, but he has a greater store of thoughts, his nature is enlarged and that's what life is all about. The thoughts about us form another part of life. We want to widen ourselves on a higher moral plane, to embrace all humanity. It is this that counts.

"Our duty to fellow-man can best be performed by forgetting him and widening ourselves. It is the same thing—Love thy neighbor as thyself." "Act as though thou wert as one thy neighbor and thyself," said Professor Royce in his beautiful analysis of our nature. Let ourselves in a way that we know him, his joys and sorrows, for the greatest joy in this world is to know that your heart is beating for many hearts. It is the highest experience in the world, and the one great light that has shone for nearly nineteen centuries.

"Humanity is one, and few people know and feel it. Philosophy and science have demonstrated to us again and again that we are all brothers—ave, more than brothers. We are one, because there is no other. Our science is present in every life, and that divine presence is binding us together. This sense of God pervading every being makes all sacred, all divine, all makes every day and every other which is but to fulfill his holy will."

To the Graduates.

To the graduating class, Mrs. Maynard said: "I rejoice with you that you have completed the course that you have entered into. I congratulate you upon your achievement, but more than all, upon that possibility you have of widening out your lives for all humanity. Bear in mind that principle, and success and the greatest joy will attend you. Come into close contact with other people, find their characters and cultivate that sympathetic understanding upon which this most fundamental thing. Keep your ideals high and strong as they are now and preserve your ideas."

"Remember, my dear friends, things, though they are one: Love thy God; love thy neighbor as thyself."

Prof. Marshall opened the service with prayer, and Prof. William M. Stewart pronounced benediction.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Baccalaureate Address Was Delivered By Dr. Thompson.

To a class of five graduates of the Collegiate Institute, the Rev. Dr. Thompson, secretary of the Presbyterian mission board of the Presbyterian church, preached the baccalaureate sermon at the Presbyterian church last evening.

"Eternal Life" was Dr. Thompson's subject, and he took as his text: "This is the life eternal, that ye may know God and Jesus whom he hath sent." "This is the life eternal, that ye may know God and Jesus whom he hath sent," said the speaker, "is the best of knowledge, and so to know him constitutes eternal life. Theology and science are upon this point, that there must be some future life, but what that life is, no one knows or can know. But we do know that in order to keep the best of things true we must postulate another life. We feel that God could not have created us for this brief life alone—that there must be something more after our three score years and ten, and we pass from this existence. But what is this eternal life? It is not existence merely, not to continue existing from year to year. It is not a matter of quantity, but quality; not extension, but character of living. Just as side by side are a huge moss-grown boulder and a baby and a saint, so there exists the other lives. That is the difference between existence to eternity and eternal life.

"Life was defined by Herbert Spencer as 'getting into correspondence with nature.' So eternal life is getting into correspondence with God; fitting ourselves to go into his presence, gaining the capacity to appreciate and understand him. We must learn to know what this life is before we can enjoy it, and so we must learn to understand the possibility of eternal life. For in eternity we will enter upon that life. And the best, the surest, the only way we can learn this is to love God, to follow in his footsteps, to strive to be like him, to be like him in goodness, self-sacrifice and personal purity."

NEVER THREATENED TO RESIGN HIS OFFICE.

But Did Not Wish to Preside Over Such a Board—Action in the McCoy Case.

The street is 100 feet wide and extends from Front street to the military reservation, a distance of half a mile.

NOT HUNTING OUTLAWS.

Cass Hite Says He Is No Outlaw-Chaser.

Cass Hite emphatically denies the statement that he has offered his services to the officials now engaged in an effort to capture the gang which dynamited the Union Pacific train in Wyoming Saturday. He declares he has never hunted in the mountains and he is not engaged in hunting anybody else. "There is only one way to get them," he said, but when asked what it was, he broke short off and refused to give his opinion. He said, however, that he very much doubted whether the present effort to run the men down would be successful. He thought he knew some of the crowd engaged in the robbery, but said he had no interest in the affair, and nothing could be gained by making the names of suspects public property.

Dan Godfrey's Audiences.

The London Mail says "4,163,632 people listened to Dan Godfrey during the industrial exhibition; 65,000 people listened to the band at one sitting when Godfrey played at the peace jubilee at Boston in 1872, whereas at this present time the band filled the Seventh armory, New York, with 10,000 people; had to shift into three different buildings in Boston, to hold the crowd; packed the Chicago Auditorium a few weeks ago, and at Kansas City, Dec. 1, 1898, played in Convention hall to over 18,000 people in the two performances. This is record-breaking with a vengeance. Popular prices at the Tabernacle should warrant thousands turning out for Godfrey's festival concert June 14 and 15.

WHERE CANNON STANDS

RECENT RUMORS DENIED BY JUDGE COLBORN.

Friend of the Former Senator Says Cannon and Other Silver Republican Leaders Stand Where They Have Always Stood—Bryan and Silver in 1900.

Judge E. F. Colborn, who has been in Colorado for the past three weeks, returned home yesterday morning. It is known that during his absence Judge Colborn was much in the company of Senator Frank J. Cannon, who went with him from here. Senator Teller, Congressman Shafter, Chairman Stephens and other prominent silver Republicans of Colorado; it was known, too, that a number of meetings were held in the Colorado capital between these leaders, and to get an idea of what transpired there a Herald reporter called upon Mr. Colborn last evening at his home in Popcorn.

Attention was called to the rumor published by the Denver Times concerning Senator Cannon, which represented the latter as saying that the silver issue was never a part of the campaign, and that he was to return to the regular Mark Hanna organization. This, Mr. Colborn said, was absolutely untrue. He saw every reporter that Senator Cannon saw and he knows positively that the senator did not give out an intimation on that or any other subject. A rumor was circulated in Denver that Senator Cannon had deserted the cause of silver, that rumor started in Utah and had no foundation in fact.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY'S GRATITUDE

ENJOYED DEMONSTRATION OF SALT LAKE CHILDREN.

Writes a Letter to President Nelden of the School Board—Tribute to Utah's Patriotism.

President Nelden of the school board received the following letter from Admiral Schley last evening. It speaks for itself and shows how deeply the old sailor was moved by the magnificent reception he received in this city:

Omaha, Neb., June 1, 1899.

Hon. W. A. Nelden, President Board of Education, Salt Lake City, Utah:

My Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your very kind letter of May 28, in the name of 12,000 school children in your beautiful city.

I cannot tell you how thoroughly I enjoyed the welcome which they gave me, and mine, and how much it meant to me, nor can I tell you how much I was impressed with your beautiful city, its surroundings and the wonderful work that is being done there in reclaiming that desert and making it a paradise. The devotion and patriotism of your people is indeed a thing to be proud of, and to me doubly sweet. Very sincerely yours,

W. S. SCHLEY.

Is It Malaria or Alum?

(Popular Science Monthly.)

Languor, loss of appetite, indigestion and often feverishness are the common symptoms of a physiological condition termed "malaria." All these symptoms may be and frequently are the effect of the use of alum baking powders in food-making. There is no question about the poisonous effect of alum upon the system. It obstructs digestion, prostrates the nerves, coagulates and devitalizes the blood. All this has been made plain to the physicians, boards of health, and food commissions. So "highly injurious to the health of the community" does the alum baking powder that he says "its sale should be prohibited by law."

Under the circumstances, it is worth the while of every housewife to employ the very little care that is necessary to keep so dangerous an element out of the food of her family.

A pure cream of tartar baking powder, which is the only kind that should be used, ought to cost about 45 to 50 cents a pound.

Remember, if you are using anything less, something is wrong; if you are paying 25 cents or less per pound, the powder is certainly made from alum.

Always bear these simple facts in mind when purchasing baking powder.

ACTION OF SHEEPMEN.

Commissioner Herman Urged to Suspend Reservation Order.

At the mass convention of sheep-owners held in this city last Saturday the chairman, Jesse M. Smith, was directed to send a telegram to the authorities at Washington urging them to suspend the order of the United States land reservation in Utah. This telegram was sent by Mr. Smith yesterday.

To Hon. Benner Herman, Commissioner General Land Office, Washington:

At a large and enthusiastic mass-meeting of citizens of Utah and Wyoming held in Salt Lake City, June 4, we were directed to send you the following resolution, and we urgently request a favorable answer to it. Great distress and wrong will result if the stockmen, both cattle and sheep, are not granted:

"Resolved, That the department of the interior be requested to defer the operation of the order of Colorado May prohibiting sheep upon the forest reservation in Utah until the close of the season of '99, for the reason that sheep owners have been unable to dispose of their sheep, and ruin and loss will follow if they cannot use the reservation this season."

JESSE M. SMITH, Chairman.

SUNDAY AT SALT LAKE.

Successful Balloon Ascension Witnessed By Hundreds of People.

Yesterday's fine weather tempted several hundred people out to Saltair to witness the balloon ascension and parachute jump. Professor M. Trimble was a little late in getting the balloon ready, but at 5:30 p. m. the day was bright and it sailed gently up to a height where the professor looked like a tiny dot on the sky. Professor Trimble went on hand with his head downward until the balloon seemed to stand perfectly still, when he cut the parachute loose and descended, alighting about a mile and a half from the place where he was. The day was a perfect success.

The people spent the afternoon very quietly, strolling about the buildings. A few went in bathing and seemed to enjoy it. The atmosphere was a little cool, but the water was said to be 72 degrees.
